

Sander Veenhof – Patent Alert project (Saturdays)

The next generation of augmented reality wearables will soon be ready to be worn throughout the day. These devices will assist us, guide us through life and control our behavior. That sounds like speculative fiction, but it's a fully patented reality already. The "Patent Alert" app for the HoloLens lets you experience this future in the present by scanning your environment to warn you about behaviors or situations that are off limits because of existing patents.

<http://beyourownrobot.com/patentalert>